

*She doesn't think
she's a weirdo.*

When you're this age, anything that makes you feel weird is awful. So when Sally started having frequent stomach pain, she told her parents and they took her to Canton-Potsdam Hospital. The doctors and nurses made a point to pay special attention to Sally, which made her feel a lot better. And even though Sally may actually be a little weird, she should never have to feel that way. We're excited to be a hospital that cares in a way people notice.
